

HOBART DEFEATS Y IN TRACK BUT FAILS TO REPEAT IN WRESTLING

The Y. M. C. A. wrestlers proved that they had considerable class Saturday night when they grappled with the Hobart wrestling team to a tie, with two matches of the five won by the Y. M. C. A., two by Hobart, and the last one declared a draw. In the relay race, Hobart won over the picked up city team by almost a half lap of the gymnasium track.

A large crowd of students, prospective students, and professors gathered for the Sub-Freshman celebration, which started with the athletic meet in the college gymnasium shortly after eight o'clock.

The wrestling matches were started off by a preliminary between two city lads, called "Young Zbyesko" and "Strangler Stecher," who furnished three minutes of good amusement.

Clow, of the Y. M. C. A., 122 pounds, started off against Hanson, Hobart, 123 pounds. By a quick flop and the use of a "scissors," Hanson had Clow flat on the mat in one minute and 36 seconds.

In the bout between Rogers, 170 pounds, and Schearer, 154 pounds, Rogers was given the decision, although he did not succeed in getting George Schearer flat on the mat. The bout ran the full three minutes, and Rogers seemed to have the better of the argument.

The quickest decision of the five matches occurred in the bout between Goodelle, 161, and Dunne at 151. On moving to the center of the mat, Dunne quickly flopped Goodelle in a minute and 20 seconds.

A hard fought tussle was that between Albro of the Y. M. C. A., 128, and Odell, 127 1-2, when Albro finally pinned Odell down in two minutes and 37 seconds.

The last match was the longest of the five. Jensen, 146, of the Y. M. C. A., and Willis, 141, of Hobart, twisted and turned for three minutes without getting a decision, although Willis seemed to get the jump in the first minute of scrapping. Three minutes more were given, but neither Willis nor Jensen were able to get decisive holds.

Due to a misunderstanding, the relay race was run off wrong the first time, and had to be run over again.

The Y. M. C. A. runners did not understand that each was to run two laps around the course.

The eight runners were lined up again, the members of the city team on one side of the gymnasium track, and the Hobart runners on the other side. Each Hobart runner gained a little on the four men of the city, so that when Carr, the Hobart anchor man, finished nearly a half lap ahead of Rogers, the city team anchor man.

Each runner trotted 220 yards, or two laps around the track. Howe, a member of the Hobart team, was out of the race because of a scarlet fever quarantine. The Hobart team was made up of Hanson, Kober, Dietrich and Carr, while the city team was made up of Clow, Tricker, Bishop and Rogers.

The time made by Hobart in the relay, bettered previous records on the Hobart gymnasium track. The half mile was run Saturday night in 118.4 seconds. The best previous record was 120.

In the second half, however, the Saints by superior team work drew away from their opponents and won 36 to 20. Two former Saints were seen in uniform Saturday night.
