

in general to continue at about present levels. In view of this, the decline in farm land values can be expected to level off in the year ahead," say the Cornell agricultural economist

Tech Downs Bonaventure

Ag-Tech matmen won their sixth match to remain undefeated by rolling over St. Bonaventure University, 29-3, Friday night in the Tech gym.

Taking four weight classes by pinning and three on decisions, the Techmen completely outclassed St. Bona's squad.

John LeBlanc, State Tech's 130 pound grappler, maintained his record of winning all his matches on pins when he overpowered St. Bona's McHall in six and a half minutes.

Happy Birthday

The Alfred Sun extends the hearty

University Boasts Having Smallest Collegiate Player

The Saxons boast the smallest man in intercollegiate basketball this year. He is Leonard T. Rapkin, 5' 3" sophomore guard from Brooklyn.

Lennie doesn't lead the Saxons in any department statistically but that is only because no one keeps track of the number of times each man steals the ball from opponent. His record of personal fouls indicates that he is pretty high and unofficial statistics would have him leading the nation. As it is, Rapkin likes to play teams that have tall men and he is on the starting five for Alfred.