

WRESTLING

Among the major winter sports squads in Franklin history, the least success has been gained by the wrestling team. Only in 1953 did the Red and White grapplers gain the league and sectional titles; in recent years the lack of depth has kept the Quakers from taking more championships, despite several individual standouts.

Wrestling joined the sports picture in 1931, but from 1933 to 1943 a lack of funds curtailed Interscholastic League activity.

This year's squad, while not placing high in the league standings, showed exceptional desire. Senior Nate Turner, with two Section V titles already under his belt, turned in as fine an overall performance as any grappler in the history of the school.
