Review of the Season

MCLANE's grapplers were strengthened by the presence of eleven letter-men on the squad last fall, and many predicted that the best team ever to grace the Purple mat would sweep through an eventful and highly successful season. However, a lack of interest soon became apparent and, later, injuries and ineligibility sapped the strength of the squad with almost fatal results. Thus, the matmen gained three glorious victories and dropped four hard-fought battles in wrestling's most disappointing season.

Alfred's outstanding meets fell on her southern trip to Lancaster and Philadelphia, when the Purple battled brilliantly against Franklin and Marshall's undefeated warriors. Against the Quakers at Penn the final result was debatable, although the score was decided in favor of the Red and Blue. However, the matmen regained their prestige when, with only two regulars competing, they downed C. C. N. Y. by a 20-14 score in the most colorful meet of the season.

Captain Hambel, D'Elia (ex-captain) and Sanchez will be lost to next year's team by graduation. But with the prospects of twelve experienced wrestlers returning to the fold next fall, a successful season becomes a near certainty.
