Flyers Bump Sabres

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent still shell-shocked from giving up five goals against Montreal the night before, must have wondered after giving up the first two against Buffalo. "I'm telling you, I felt awful about those first two goals," Parent said. But a tip from referee and goalie Gary Inness that as playing too defensively led the Flyers to beat the Sabres 4-2 in their National Hockey League game Sunday. "When I went out in the second period, I went back to the way I usually play," said Parent, who had been lifted after two periods in Montreal Saturday night, trailing 5-2. Defenseman Andre Dupont scored goals at 11:44 and 18:40. Tom Bladon put a shot past Sabre goalie Don Edwards just one second left in the third period to take a 3-2 lead. "I was shocked about scoring two goals," Dupont quipped, "I have scored at my 10 before the playoffs. He now has seven. The loss extended the Sabres' winless streak in Philadelphia to 10 games, 0-15-2, since joining the NHL in 1970. Every team seems to have somebody's number," Flyers' coach Fred Shero said of the Sabres' inability to win here. "It used to be that there were 10 teams that we couldn't beat and they weren't the power teams of the league." Parent's team's winless streak, players like Bob McMillen, Bill Monroe and Walt Frazier have not been winning many games. The Knicks split a two-game series with the lowly New York Nets, losing at home Saturday before winning 107-104 at the Nassau Coliseum Sunday. Their record is now 16-3. "If the playoffs started today, the Knicks would not be in it," said McMillen. "We needed this kind of game," said McMillen Sunday's victory. "We were down in the dumps, not playing well, but we pulled ourselves out of it."

The Knicks, who shot 41 per cent from the field, were trailing 47-43 through the third quarter before they got going. They reeled off the final 11 points in the period to take a 66-57 lead, then turned back a Nets comeback and pulled away late going.

"We showed some determination," said McMillen.

Connors

Jimmy Connors is in good enough to beat most tennis players on one leg. But he wasn't Sunday. The generally recognized international king of tennis suffered a torn knee muscle in the final of a World Championship Tennis Tournament at Toronto and as a result, had to cancel his match against Dick Stockton.

"I really wanted to be playing," said Stockton, "but I could see that Jimmy was in a lot of pain. Up to that point he was playing well and I thought I could have won the match." "But I didn't want it to end this way. I'd have rather lost than to win this way."

A WCT spokesman said Connors suffered a tear in the anterior medial muscle in his knee and will be sidelined for at least two weeks. In another professional
