THE SEASON

In the course of a comparatively short season of only five meets, the wrestling team in its second year did unusually well. Three wins and two losses form the record of the season, Stevens Tech, Muhlenberg and New York City College tasting defeat at the hands of the Blue and White, and the University of Pennsylvania and Washington and Lee University winning. The Blue and White easily won from institutions in their class and gave the larger institutions bitter fights for victory.

The growing popularity of the mat sport is shown by the fact that unusually large crowds attended the meets, as well as an enthusiastic body of students. The new sport is predicted to become the major winter sport on college hill.

Stevens Tech, of Hoboken, appeared for the first meet of the season the middle of December, and was defeated quite handily, 16-5. Two fall and two decision did the trick, the visitors coming off with one fall. In the next meet, with Muhlenberg, also at home, the team went one better and made it 17-5, with four decisions and one fall against one fall by the Cardinal and Gray matmen.

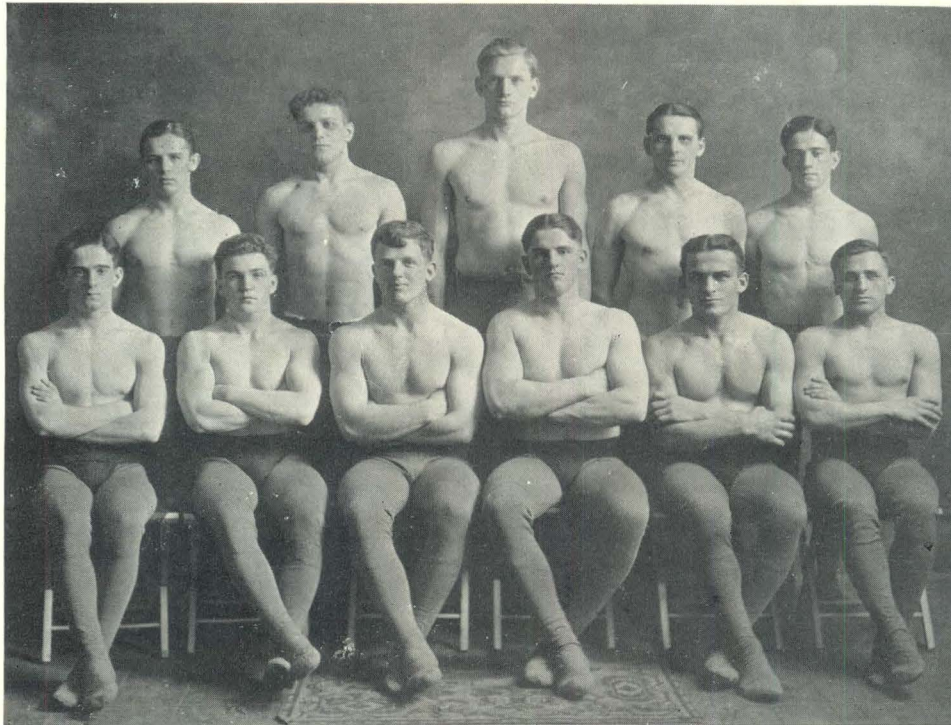

In the next meet, with the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, appearing for the first time on a foreign mat, stage fright and insufficient confidence prevented the Blue and White grapplers from doing their best, although they gave the University matmen stiff battles in every bout, Captain Horner throwing his man, and Lou Moore, a Freshman, giving Heister, the Penn Captain, the battle of his life.

New York City College was handily disposed of 14-0 in the next home meet, and the season was closed on the home floor when the Washington and Lee team, on their way to triumph over Army, defeated F. and M. 18-9, in the most thrilling wrestling match ever seen in Lancaster. The score stood 9-8 in favor of F. and M. at the end of the 158 pound bout, but the heavier Generals cinched the meet for W. and L. by coming through with falls in the heavy-weight classes.

With only one man lost by graduation, and again under the expert tutelage of Coach Mayser, a more strenuous schedule will be undertaken next year. Wrestling is bound to grow in popularity, and at the present pace, the Blue and White team will soon rate with the best.

Fresh-Soph Basketball

The Freshmen revenged their losses in football and wrestling a few weeks after the mat tilt by giving the Sophs a 34-8 lacing in basketball. The yearlings had everything their own way from the start, and ran away with their elders. The Fresh played a splendid game, and outclassed the second year men completely in every department of the game. Innumerable substitutions were made by the Freshman coach, but the slaughter went on unabated.
