

MATMEN MEET IN INTERCOLLEGIATES

Taylor Gym will be the Scene of Bouts for Championship Laurels

SEVEN TEAMS ENTERED

Lehigh has a Good Chance to Capture Honors in Several Classes

The Wrestling Intercollegiates will open this afternoon in Taylor Gym when the seven contesting teams send their men into the preliminary bouts. It has been a number of years since the bouts were held here, and they are drawing a great deal of interest. The outlook for the meet is that there will be a number of interesting and hard-fought bouts. The seven teams to be represented are: Lehigh, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Penn State and Columbia.

The drawing for the byes was made this morning with each team getting one bye in one of the classes. After the preliminaries this afternoon, the four victors in the classes will meet in the semi-finals to-night. The winners in these bouts in each class then will meet each other in the finals to-morrow afternoon.

The entries for this afternoon's and this evening's bouts have, with but few exceptions, been decided upon. This year's Inter-collegiates promises to be the most interesting and most hotly-contested that has been held in years, due to the equal distribution of individual stars. In fact, individual stars are so well distributed that the team successful in capturing two individual championships, has a fair chance of annexing the team title. Each team is placing their greatest hopes in two or three men whom they figure will gain honors.

LEHIGH

The best idea of Lehigh's chances in the coming intercollegiate wrestling was given by Coach T. Sheridan, when he expressed the following opinion: "Our men are all in good shape. We are entering without offering any alibis, and we will fight from the drop of the hat." The coach said that the coming meet to decide the intercollegiate supremacy gives promise of being the closest ever held, and that Lehigh stands as good a chance as any of the other entries. The good wrestlers are so split up amongst the various classes and colleges that it is hardly probable that one team can win more than two championships. From comparative scores, there is no one college that stands out exceptionally well.

The Lehigh grapplers are all in excellent condition. With the exception of the 125-pound and 145-pound classes, the entire Lehigh line-up has been decided upon. All of the men have been putting everything they have into this last week of training and can be relied upon to do their best. The following men are assured places on the team:—

115-pound—Schwarzbach.

125-pound—(not decided).

135-pound—Gihon.

145-pound—(not decided).

158-pound—Capt. Coxe.

175-pound—Carlisle.

Heavy-weight—Moorehouse.

PENN STATE

State's chances of again capturing team honors are not so bright as in former years. Nevertheless, they present probably the most formidable aggregation of any of the entries. State is confident and rightly so, that Captain Watson, last year's 115-lb. champion, will again annex the title this year. Watson has beaten every one who has come his way, even the formidable Timberlake, of Navy, and it will be not a surprise or an unlooked for event if he again annexes the title. State also has hopes of capturing honors in one or two more bouts which it is felt will be sufficient for the team championship. They are putting great faith in Weinschenk, 125-lb., and Evans, 135-lb.

COLUMBIA

Columbia enjoyed unusual success at the beginning of the season and was looked upon as the probable inter-collegiate champion by many. Their stocks went down a peg, however, when they were decisively defeated by Cornell several weeks ago. Their ace is Captain Hart, last year 135-lb. champion, but this year assuming the burden of the next-higher class. Schwartz, 125-pounder, and Daretzky, 135-pounder, and the other men in whom Columbia has greatest faith.

CORNELL

By a basis of comparative scoring and dual meets won, Cornell looms almost on a par with State as the possible team champion, despite the fact that she was forced to bow to State in a dual meet. Cornell has a well-balanced team and is the most formidable she has been in years. In Captain Ackerly, they have one of the cleverest grapplers in the game, and Watson, of State, will have to be in his best form to retain his title.

About the best Cornell hope is Hansen, 175-lb. class, who has not been downed this season, but he will have to reckon with Wilson, of Princeton, who also enjoys the honor of being undefeated for the season. Their heavy-weight entry, Wright, is also expected to furnish keen competition.

PENN

Penn's record for the season has been fair but nothing spectacular. However, they are not without hope and look for ex-Captain Ashby to make a strong bid for the 175-lb. title. They are also pinning great hopes on Rabinowitz who has shown consistent work in the 145-lb. division.

PRINCETON

Princeton's hopes are somewhat lowered by the fact that they will be minus the services of Morrison, last year's 145-lb. champion. Morrison is suffering from an injury to his head received two years ago in a dual meet with Yale. Princeton's other hope lies in Wilson, 175-lb. entry.

YALE

Yale appears to be the dark horse this year, and much is expected from the New Haven grapplers. With Captain Benjamin, 158-lb. entry, Mackey, heavy-weight entry, together with Kronholm, the 125-lb. entry, they have a trio of grapplers who are expected to make strong bids for individual titles.

There has just appeared a booklet entitled Tributes to Nature, by Mr. Asa K. McIlhaney, former principal of schools of Bath, Pa., whose contents he describes as "a collection of prose and poetry, and of more than a hundred autograph letters pertaining to Arbor Day, trees and flowers, written by eminent men and women, during a period of thirty-five years". In this book is included what Mr. McIlhaney calls the "beautiful poem" of "The Mountain Laurel" by Dr. Charles K. Meschter, of the Department of English of Lehigh University.

TEAM GETTING IN SHAPE FOR OXFORD

win him a place. Another defensive position will, in all probability, be awarded to Whitney if he maintains his present gait.

Captain Strauch, Greene, Gonzales, Muzdakis, Hocker, Wilson and Tavener are all working hard in attack positions and are the seasoned men from whom Coach O'Neil will have to develop his best scoring combination. Several scrubs and some new experienced material are in the squad, and with improved stick-handling are bound to draw attention.

All efforts of Manager Drew to schedule a game for to-morrow afternoon in place of the cancelled New York Lacrosse Club game have proven futile. However a scrimmage game will be staged on the Upper Field and should prove even more beneficial to the squad, as it will enable the coaches to do some tutoring during the play.

The schedule for the season is as follows:—

- April 1—Oxford University.
- April 8—Rutgers.*
- April 15—Swarthmore.
- April 22—Navy.
- May 6—Stevens.*
- May 13—Army.*
- May 20—Univ. of Penna.
- May 27—Johns Hopkins.

* Games away.

BROWN AND WHITE ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

P. Gooding, '22, retiring Managing Editor, reported that in his view, J. W. Gardy was much better in the art of making up the paper and that he felt that the board would be losing one of the best Managing Editors from its ranks if he was not elected Managing Editor. For this reason, he recommended J. W. Gardy for Managing Editor, ignoring the fact that in previous years, the better man always got the position of Editor-in-Chief because of his ability as Assistant Editor and because of the honor of the office. The election held immediately after the recommendations resulted in F. C. Walters, '23, becoming Editor-in-Chief for the coming year. The new officers will assume their positions with the next issue.

Ohio State University claims the largest drum in the Middle West. When the drum is beaten the members of the university band wear ear-muffs to protect themselves from the sound. The instrument is seven feet in diameter and fifty inches in width. When mounted on its carriage, the top of the drum is nine feet from the ground.

The tradition that seniors carry canes is becoming more widespread. Seniors at Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Notre Dame and Indiana have added their support.
