The Team with the Moves

Wrestling is a sport which requires desire, dedication and the guts to endure massive weight loss and severe pain. This year, under the coaching of Jim Lamb and assistant coaches Jim Michael and Gary McLouth, the Williamsville South Wrestling team proved once again to be a feared powerhouse of Section VI. The Billies at one point in the season were ranked as high as fifth in Western New York. The team was led this year by tri-captains Doug Truesdell, Rich Testa, and Eric Eads. Sophomore sensation Mark Sullivan and Junior Chris Kumrow were both very intimidating to other teams because both of them were ranked among Western New York's best in their weight classes. Other strong contributors were Galeb Rizek, Keith McClure, Ken McLouth, Joe Tagliarano, Rob Silvestri, Ken Banks and Al Gross.

Apart from the dual matches, the team competed in four tournaments which covered areas from Jamestown to Rochester. Only the finest schools were invited to these meets from New York and Pennsylvania, including the feared number one ranked school in the country, St. Edwards of Ohio.

This year's JV team, led by captains Joe Rotella and Dave Eads, proved that although its wrestlers were young, they would someday follow in the tracks of the varsity team, keeping the wrestling pride of Williamsville South.
