A Renaissance in Wrestling

The return of Coach Herb Swingle to the Olympia wrestling program has resulted in a new sense of interest by the entire student body regarding this sport. In the past the team has been plagued by a lack of students willing to make the commitment to wrestling, but the 1982 year boasted fifty-four students trying out for the two teams. Coach Swingle and Coach Chuck Giordano were pleased by this large turnout and looked forward to a successful season. The fact that many of the wrestlers were new to the sport caused the team to get off to a slow start, yet they acquired valuable experience as the season progressed. By late January, the team was in full competitive form, and urged on by large crowds, of supporters, they began to win enough individual matches to achieve several team victories. Leading the varsity squad were veterans Paul Ignatowski, Britt Youngman, and Dan Englert. Other varsity wrestlers worthy of mention for both their winning efforts and the hard work that they have put in this year are: John Owen, Bob Rawleigh, Mark Hryhorenko, Steve Barratt, and Merle Nozzi.

The JV squad finished the season with a greatly improved record compared to last season. Again it was largely due to the increased turnout and fierce competition in each weight class. Leading the JV's were Rick Petralia, Mike VanRoo, John Tennity and Nick Cocilova.
