

WRESTLING

C.A.'s 1965 wrestling team had a major rebuilding job this year, and were hampered all season by inexperience. Nevertheless, the team showed real improvement and demonstrated obvious ability. Bill Winship at 95 lbs., Fred Ledgerwood at 127, Tony Addante at 138, and Gary Marvin, the heavy, all had fine seasons and were the vanguard for what success did come to the Braves. Addante accomplished the remarkable feat of capturing his Section 5 crown for the third straight year. Previously he had won the title at 112 lbs, 120 lbs, and 133 lbs, to give him an enviable record.
